The DIMMER VIEW

by Max Goodwin

'Amotivational Maladjustment' Is Newest 'Grass' Use Outfall

Johnny doesn't go to football practice any more. He's dropped out of the high school drama club and neglects his homework.

Once a busy and active lad, Johnny has taken to loafing a lot, and bragging about all the great things he's going to do — if he gets the right breaks.

Sometimes his eyes are bloodshot, and he has a persistent cough. He is alternately euphoric and depressed. His hunger pangs are more frequent than those of most growing boys and he sleeps a lot.

What's the matter with Johnny? It is very likely that he is a pothead — one of the million or so young people in the country who have made marijuana their way of life.

Although marijuana is not physically addictive, it can lead to psychological dependence — and it can also cause a youngster to experiment with more potent and dangerous drugs and to steal and commit other crimes to support the habit.

Of particular concern is the fact that pot-smoking is becoming a more significant factor in highway accidents as it impairs judgment, depth perception and the ability to react swiftly and decisively in a crisis.

The Department of Safety and Research of the Combined Insurance Co. of America reports that several surveys have disclosed that as many as 20,000,000 Americans have smoked "grass" at least once and that most of the heavy users are young people who buy illegally imported pot on college campuses, in dormitories, on street corners and in candy stores, among other places.

Now that a national move is afoot to remove marijuana-smoking from the category of criminal offenses and make it a misdemeanor, the health and safety authorities fear that more young people will "go to pot" and the number of traffic accidents will increase. Even the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws has asked for increased vigilance against pot smoking and its potential hazards.

Dr. James Nichols of the National Highway Safety Administration finds that the marijuana smoker tends to be in a different kind of highway accident from the drinking driver. The smoker is more likely to crash because of inattention than because of aggressive or fast driving, he said.

The National Safety Council notes that experiments with marijuana smoking have uncovered such driving errors as failure to recognize signs or the presence of other cars; delays in response to visual cues; impaired attention span; failure to detect peripheral visual and auditory signals; relaxed vigilance, and increased starting and braking time.

It is the opinion of Dr. Robert Peterson of the National Institute of Drug Abuse that you don't have to be "stoned" (high) on a joint (marijuana cigarette) to face danger on the highway. He maintains that anyone who can feel any effect from marijuana should not get behind the wheel.

"Pot and driving are like gasoline and matches," he declares. "They just don't mix."

The presence of marijuana in the body can be detected with a blood test, and scientists are working to perfect other techniques, including a breath test similar to that administered suspected drunken drivers.

Combined's safety researchers point out that the principal active chemical ingredient in marijuana, a form of hemp, is THC — Delta-9-tetrahydrocannabinol. It is found in varying amount in Indian hemp, which is cultivated principally in Mexico and the Orient. The marijuana that grows wild in the U.S. is not considered to be very potent.

Hashish — or hash — is a dark brown substance gathered from the tops of marijuana plants and is usually smoked in water pipes or eaten. It is at least five times stronger and more dangerous than marijuana leaves that most people roll in cigarette paper or tamp into pipes.

Most pot users smoke the dried green leaves of the marijuana plant, which smells something like alfalfa, but some eat it; while the reaction time is slower, the resulting "highs" last longer.

In addition to detectable physical signs that a person may be a pot smoker, there are psychological side-effects, according to Combined's safety experts. Among them are distortions of hearing, vision and the sense of time. Users often become suspicious of others or feel that they are thinking more clearly than ever before.

Their personality development can be disrupted so severely that they become socially maladjusted. The name for such a marijuana-induced psychological upheaval is "amotivational syndrome," which means the sufferer has lost all desire to work, compete or face challenges.

"In short," a Combined researcher observed, "one's interests and concerns are centered on one thing — where to get the next joint of marijuana for the next high."

Grossmont Hospital Rates Jump An Average Of 5.6%

Rates for medical services at Grossmont Hospital are going up an average of 5.6 per cent to offset interest payments, and increases in hospital supplies, and salaries.

According to hospital comptroller Douglas Conklin, hospital supplies alone have been increasing at an eight to nine per cent clip per year.

This, coupled with nearly three quarters of a million dollars interest payment, forced the Grossmont Hospital trustees to pass the rate increase May 18.

The increases break down as follows:

Single room, semi-private: $105 per day, up $8.

Nursery care: $80, up $5.

Medical Intensive Care: $225, up $35.

Surgical Intensive Care: $210, up $20.

Major surgery: $190 for the first hour, up $38.

Minor surgery: $130 for the first hour.

Special Services: $215 for the first hour.

Emergency Room: $25, up $5.

The Grossmont Board of Trustees decreased the following services:

Central Service (includes bandages, dressings): down 11.7 per cent.

Pharmacy: down 5.2 per cent.

Pulmonary medical services: down 7.4 per cent.

"The increases were due primarily to increases we have received from suppliers," said Conklin. "Higher salary costs

Council Meetings to Go Weekly June 2

County Planning Overrides Council Vote on Hospital

The facts of city life are beginning to envelope the Lemon Grove council-elect.

The group admitted there just isn't enough time to conduct business during bi-weekly meetings.

The decision was accented when the group Thursday adjourned as the clock touched midnight.

Beginning June 2, the group will meet weekly. And they'll start an hour earlier, at 7 p.m.

The council will continue to meet in the meeting room of the fire house. The public is encouraged to attend.

The agenda Thursday looked discouraging enough. It was short. But that was disarming. The council didn't dawdle. Yet people had come to be heard. They were. At one point Tom Parks, liaison officer between council and county board of supervisors, warned that after cityhood, there would be some council meetings until 2 a.m.

One issue taking substantial time, as it should, was the request of O. Phillip Jordan, owner of the 41-bed Cresta Loma Convalescent hospital at Palm st. near Skyline, who appeared for the second time to ask the council to support his request for a special use permit by which he could commence construction of a 149-bed $2.25 million facility.

The County Department of Transportation had recommended an additional 20-foot setback for the project to accommodate a 102-foot right-of-way for Palm. Jordan wanted the set back eliminated.

The council agonized for three-quarters of an hour and voted 4-1, to support the special use permit request but to enforce the set-back conditions asked by the County.

Jack Doherty voted in support of removing the set back. Palm st. is listed as a major feeder route to projected State 125 (along Sweetwater) but is not included in the state's 6-year plan.

Doherty Supports Project Doherty urged the fellow members to support the "ready to go project that would bring thousands of dollars (taxes) to the city and employment to 80 people."

He also noted that the council's concern of having some day to condemn and purchase property after supporting the special use variance was not altogether valid since there are 8 duplexes and 30 houses already in the proposed right-of-way.

Other members took the position that they would be undoing the plan the Department of Transportation had developed after three years of work.

The rejection had no official effect in cancelling Jordan's plan since the council is only advisory to the board of supervisors.

During the meeting Bob Holaday, chairman of the L.G. Community Planning Assn. testified that his group has determined that a need exists for the facility.

Jordan's plea was made urgent because the hearing on his request before the County Planning Commission was scheduled for the next day.

"Your decision will have a tremendous effect on them," Jordan said the Thursday night meeting.

It didn't Planning Commission approved the special-use permit and construction will start as scheduled. Jordan said rejection would have washed out $90,000 he had already invested in the project.

Park Problem A lengthy discussion centered around the Lemon Grove Park where neighbors complain of noise, trespassing, disturbing the peace, thefts, drugs and sex acts keep them awake and upset.

The council had previously rejected installing a 5-foot fence because it would be "inadequate." Councilman Dr. Robert Burns heads a committee to resolve the problem and is meeting with residents in the area for that purpose.

The council gave the nod to Brent Larkin's entry in the logo (symbol) contest. Larkin, 19, lives at 3421 Golden View Terrace in Lemon Grove.

It was reported that members are meeting with applicants for the post of city attorney and that ads had been placed for a city clerk.

Discussion regarding a city building site narrowed down to two locations with representatives of each being present. One is the new 3-story building at the corner of Broadway and Massachusetts. The other is the 1-story building at Main and North. Liaison Officer Parks reminded that the build-

Better Rating Cuts Fire Insurance Costs

Spring Valley's fire insurance classification has been improved from class 5 to class 4 effective May 21, according to S.V. Fire Chief Daryl Stager.

Stager said the improved grading was pleasing but not satisfying since the Department narrowly missed an even better grade. Upgrading possibilities still exist through some modifications, he said.

Public fire protection is one of the factors determining rates for fire insurance coverage on most commercial, industrial and residential properties by fire rating organizations. Each improved rating grade represents considerable savings to commercial property owners.

By comparison Lemon Grove also has a rating of 4.

Gundersen, 19, Miss Lemon Grove. They will compete for the Fairest of the Fair title Sunday at Al Bahr Temple in San Diego. The winner will reign over the 88th annual Expo, June 21 through July 4.

Fire Board Refutes Councilman's Allegations

The Lemon Grove Fire Protection District, Monday night, took an unusual action by putting into the official minutes a refutation of "allegations and implications" allegedly made by councilman-elect Jack Doherty.

One director said the allegations were made in public to citizens of the community at various times during the past several weeks.

The refutation labeled "Facts":

1. L.G. taxpayers will not be double-taxed by the co-existence of the City and the Fire District from July 1 to November 1, 1977. The Fire District tax ends July 1, 1978 — the City tax starts July 1, 1978. City tax will go no higher than 75c. Fire District tax is presently 86.8c.

2. The Fire District Board is in current budgetary deliberations and intends to hold the tax rate steady. The district tax rate is one of the lowest in the County.

3. The Board is continuing its longstanding policy of fiscal responsibility, frugality, and fairness in its administration of the District.

4. The board member have never promised to eliminate all contingency reserve funds or to "slash" the Fire District tax rate. The reserve fund for the fiscal year 1976-77 totalled $255,000. Approximately $100,000 was expended for the purchase of a new fire truck, replacement of one auto, and required breathing apparatus. The preliminary budget for 1977-78 provides for reserves in the amount of $159,400, of which $54,000 is obligated and committed, leaving a general reserve of $105,400 which the Board considers to be a safe minimum for emergencies.

5. Until November 1, 1977, the administration of the Fire District rests solely with the presently constituted Board, and not with the City Council.

6. The Fire District Board has pledged to turn over the Fire Department to the City as a fully solvent, debt-free, efficiently functioning unit.

It was signed by James V. Dorman, Dell E. Lake, Robert F. Burns as Board of Directors, Lemon Grove Fire Protection District. All three are also members of the Council-elect.

Sales Tax Distribution

May distribution of sales tax by the state to San Diego County cities was:

Carlsbad—$120,000
Imperial Beach—21,500
National City—280,000
Vista—74,000
San Marcos—74,000

The City of Lemon Grove is frequently compared to San Marcos on population which gives a rough idea of what the monthly sales tax income will be in Lemon Grove.

Season Rain Total Up

The small Monday storm produced .36 of an inch of rain bringing the season total to 12.26. Last year at the same time the total was 10.05. Rainfall season ends June 30.

Local Landfills to Close; Nearest Dump to be Santee

Your trash is getting more valuable. More costly might be a better way of putting it.

The cost factor represents the diminishing number of public landfill sites and the greater distances that must be driven to get the stuff buried.

A case in point is San Diego City's South Chollas landfill. Beginning Wednesday, only refuse packers and large self-dumping will be permitted to use the facility Monday through Friday. Cars, pickups and trailers will be restricted to Saturday and Sundays.

Until January, that is. Then South Chollas will be made into a golf course.

The restriction, according to people at the S.D. City Solid Waste Department is that the dumping area has become so constricted that it is hazardous for bulldozers, trucks and small vehicles to attempt to use the same area. Previously, the areas were separate.

Bill Davis, Solid Waste Supervisor over on the county side, said the nearest landfill area for Lemon Grove and Spring Valley residents is the one at Sweetwater River and State 94 which is operated by the County.

But that will go out of action about the same time as the city's South Chollas fill, Davis said.

After that there will be Santee.

What is a City?

Last week this column discussed Public Works. Now we turn to financing.

FINANCING

The city is the level of government closest to the average citizen. Everyone receives service from the city and likewise, everyone must contribute to its support.

The means of support varies widely, depending on the type of community served. There are several general classifications in all cities into which various means of financing can be placed:

PROPERTY TAXES

The major source of income from most cities is the Real Property Tax. This is the traditional tax in American municipal government and is based on the value of real property which citizen owns. The city sets this tax rate each year prior to September 1st.

Each taxpayer receives an annual tax bill. This bill may not, in fact, come from the city involved, as most cities contract with their local county to prepare and mail the tax bill and collect the taxes with all collections being remitted to the city on a periodic basis.

The normal means of determining the amount of taxes to be paid is by means of the "tax rate" which usually means the amount in dollars to be paid for each $100 of "assessed valuation" of real property owned by the taxpayer.

"Assessed valuation" is the term used primarily in the real property tax field and in California is a figure roughly 25 per cent of the market value of the property.

This figure is applied to the municipal tax rate, usually limited to $1 for each $100 of assessed value, plus limited increases to accommodate inflation or population increase or as may be voted by the electorate.

For cities which depend in major part on property taxes, the receipt of these funds in January to June of each year can present a cash flow problem under a July 1 fiscal year, thus necessitating a build-up or reserves or short-term borrowing to get over the interim problem.

Deaf Daughter Depressed

Q. We have an 18-year-old daughter who was born with a birth defect. She only hears a little and has a speech defect, but she has the gift of lip reading.

She was 11 before the doctors found her trouble. With lots of hours spent helping her with homework she passed through high school.

Now she can find no job because of her handicap. She is shy and stays alone and cries a lot. She doesn't think anyone can help her now. Can you give us any advice?

A. Many people with similar afflictions have lived creative and even highly successful lives. Helen Keller, for example, could neither see nor hear, but became a talented and world-famous writer and speaker.

Your job, it seems to us, is to help your daughter arrive at a positive attitude, one of self-belief, an optimistic outlook. Get her to read books of a positive nature that will motivate her to know that people can rise above any handicap.

Many businesses welcome handicapped persons as employees. Investigate your locality for organizations that place handicapped persons in suitable jobs.

We have a booklet, "Three Days To See," by Helen Keller, which has helped many others, and a copy of it is on its way to you. Anyone reading this column who wishes a free copy may write for one. Address your request of Dr. and Mrs. Peale, Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

Two-faced husband

Q. I have a moody husband with split personality and jealous. Around certain people he's the jolliest person you could find. But with others he is sulky and makes chucky remarks.

He talks about things he knows little about. He's two-faced, takes sides with whoever he's talking to. In games he's a poor loser.

Yet, he loves me very much and is good to me. But he acts different to my children from a former marriage. I want to know something to help him before his ruins his life with everyone.

A. In your question some of your husband's good points are revealed. He can be very jolly; he can act a good friend; he loves you and is good to you.

We wonder if there are not other good points you could find. What your husband needs is to be built up from a faltering ego. People who act as he does need some person who loves them to buttress their good points. That will help diminish the less attractive qualities.

So really start believing in him. His better personality will emerge.

And if you would like to find an answer for yourself in this column to a problem that you can share with others write to: Dr. and Mrs. Peale, Box 500, Pawling NY 12564...

Camp Revival Meeting Held This Weekend in Hemet

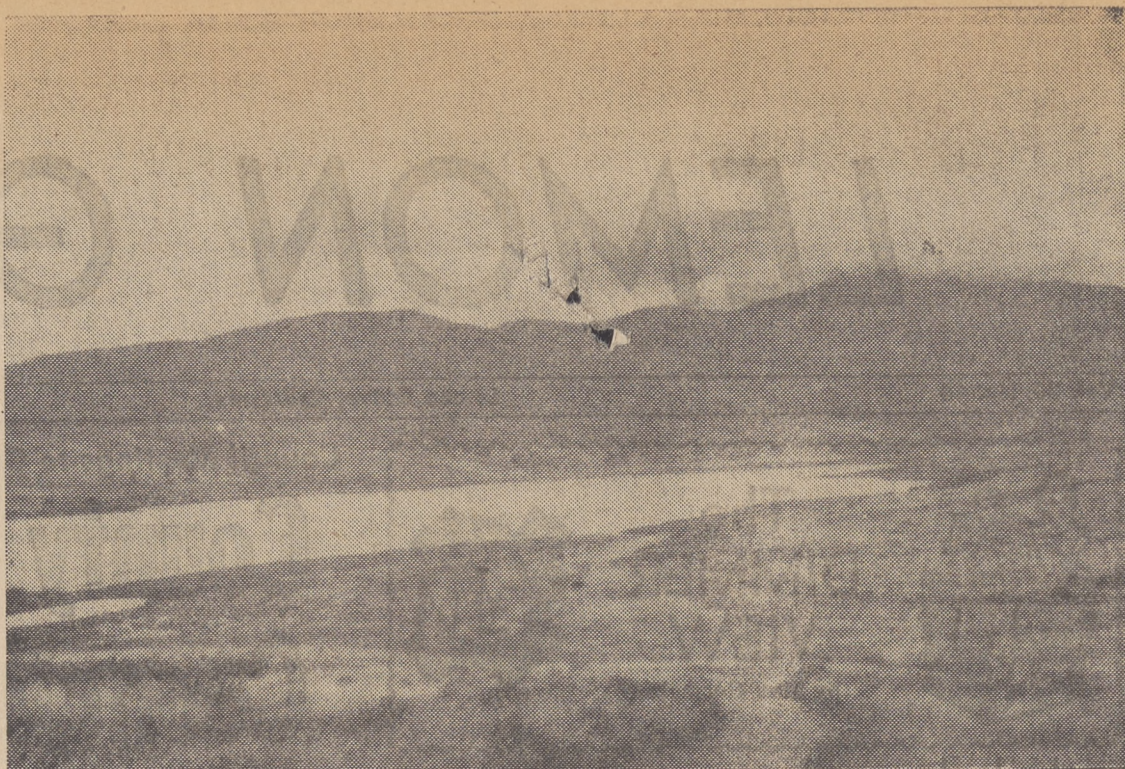

An old fashioned camp revival meeting similar to the ones held before the Civil War will be held in Hemet beginning today.

Several thousand Southeastern California Seventh-day Adventists will be attending the meeting at the Hemet Fairgrounds today through the 29th.

The camp meeting idea has made a bit of a come back with the advent of the recreational vehicle which added a modern twist to the meeting theme.

But the meetings have been controlled more due to fire hazards they cause plus stricter sanitary laws. These two factors put an end to the large meetings the Adventists have had in the past. In the past some 10,000 Adventists have pitched some 2,000 family tents.

Featured speaker at the camp meeting at the Hemet fairgrounds will be Evangelist Elden Walter of Glendale, an evangelist with the international road broadcast of the Voice of Prophecy. Other speakers include Pastor John Stevens of Westlake; Pastor

Laetrile Ban Loosening As Bill Gains Support

SACRAMENTO — The California Senate has moved to change the status of the controversial cancer drug "laetrile" banned in California since 1953.

The Senate approved on May 19, 28-7, a bill sponsored by Sen. William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, that would allow the manufacture, sale and use of Laetrile as a prescription drug in California.

Laetrile is the controversial "cure" developed by Ernest T. Krebs, Sr., a California physician in 1920. Krebs believed the chemical amygdalin, found in the pits of peaches, apricots, and in bitter almonds could be used as a cure for cancer.

But it was Krebs' son, Ernest Jr., a biochemist, who developed a purified form of the drug in 1952.

Both Krebs and son believed Laetrile seeks out the substances found in cancer cells but not in normal cells and destroys it. The substance, both men contended, causes Laetrile to release hydrocyanic acid which destroys the cancer cell.

Later the Krebs, Sr., changed the theory claiming cancer is caused by a deficiency of

Child Abuse: Treatment Of Abuser

(Editor's note: This is the last of an eight-part series of articles on the problem of the abused and neglected child, based on "Child Abuse," a pamphlet recently published by the office of State Attorney General Evelle J. Younger.)

Child abuse and neglect is largely viewed as a psychological-social problem; one that requires a therapeutic approach. Fines or jail sentences alone are unlikely to rehabilitate the child abuser.

Treatment techniques for either the entire family or just the parents are being developed and implemented throughout the nation and California. When parents feel better about themselves—when their basic emotional needs for love, self-respect and competence are satisfied—they are less likely to mistreat their children.

Several centers utilizing interdisciplinary treatment techniques have been established in California and have shown success.

Elizabeth Davoren, social worker, emphasizes what is necessary in treating abusive parents, indicating that the kind of help to which abusive parents have responded involves relationships that are more intense and more personal than the usual professional therapeutic relationships. It is sometimes called "reparenting" or nurturing.

Parents Need
In practice, she says, it means fulfilling parents' needs in the following areas:

—Parents need help to feel good about themselves, to make up for the devastating belittling they've experienced in their own lives.

—Parents need to be comforted when they are hurt, supported when they feel weak and liked for their likeable qualities—even when these are hard to find.

—Parents need someone they can trust and lean on, and someone who will put up with their crankiness and complaining. They also need someone who will not be led into accepting their low sense of self-worth.

—Parents need someone who will not be exhausted with them when they find no pleasure in life and defeat all attempts to help them seek it.

—Parents need someone who will be there in times of crisis and who can help them with their practical needs, by leading them to resources that they can use or by giving more direct help.

—Parents need someone who understands how hard it is for them to have dependents when they have never been allowed to be dependent themselves.

—Parents need someone who will not criticize them even when they ask for it, and who will not overly tell them what to do or how to manage their lives. They also need someone who does not need to use them in any way.

—Parents need someone who will help them understand their children without making them feel either imposed upon by having to understand what they cannot, or stupid for not having understood in the first place.

—Parents need someone who can give to them without making them feel of lesser value because of their needs. Parents need to feel valuable, and eventually they need to be able to give themselves and to have some role in helping others.

When parents feel better about themselves—when their basic emotional needs for love, self-respect and competence are satisfied—they are less likely to mistreat their children.

Parent self-help groups such as Parents Anonymous have undertaken successful programs in child abuse treatment. They provide a long or short term do it now approach to help establish, strengthen and maintain a healthy emotional and physical co-existence between parents and their children.

To complement crisis and other counseling offerings, many communities offer to families a number of supportive services including:

1. Homemaking services (worker comes to home and helps).
2. Emergency funds.
3. Emergency shelter care.
4. Child care services (day-care).
5. Crisis nurseries, 24-hour (parents drop-off kids).
6. Food.
7. Visits by public health nurses.

Local community child abuse councils or multidisciplinary committees represent another alternative approach toward meeting child abuse problems. Meetings are held on cases to assure thorough treatment and follow-up. Some large hospitals have implemented multifaceted programs to effectively diagnose, treat, and often prevent child abuse.

The basic goal of most child abuse/neglect programs is to effectively disrupt the generational cycle of abuse. Since no two families are alike, different modes and combinations of modes of treatment are necessary to attain that goal.

Community Should Report
Community members have an important role in protecting children from abuse and neglect. If maltreatment of a child is suspected, it is important that a qualified, experienced person investigate and make a determination as soon as possible.

Persons to call in your community include the following reporting agencies:

1. The local county welfare department, which may be known as the Human Resources Agency, Department of Social Services, Department of Health and Human Services, Department of Public Assistance, or Department of Public Social Services.
2. Parents Anonymous: Toll free (800) 352-0386.
3. The local police or county sheriff.
4. The child abuse-neglect hot-line, council or center in your area if established.
5. The local community college or adult school (for parenting classes).

Parents, caretakers, foster-parents, babysitters and others who feel the need for assistance in dealing with children may call the following assistance agencies:

1. The child abuse/neglect hot-line, council or center in your area if established.
2. Parents Anonymous: Toll free (800) 352-0386.
3. The Child Protective Services Unit of the local welfare department.
4. The local county mental health department.
5. The local community college or adult school (for parenting classes).

Microwave Ovens Require Caution Along with their Convenience

Those compact, convenient microwave ovens may be the nicest kitchen gadget since the fork if they are handled properly the California Medical Association said.

The CMA suggests these tips for safely operating microwave:

Ovens manufactured since October 1971 are not likely to cause any health problems. But the earlier models may be wearing out and caution is advised.

In those older ovens it is best to stand about one arm's length from them while they are operating to avoid harmful radiating waves. Microwaves rapidly lose their intensity as they travel away from their source thus even this short distance provides protection.

Like other electrical appliances, microwaves may cause interference with certain heart pacemakers. The oven's waves are a form of electromagnetic energy.

Their frequency and wave length are intermediate between radio waves and infrared waves. As microwave energy is absorbed, it produces a rise in temperature. The energy is reflected by metal, thus oven manufacturers suggest using glass vessels for cooking rather than stainless steel. The glass allows the waves to pass through.

The U.S. Food and Drug

Administration began testing ovens for safety in October of 1971 but the following is also suggested for all models.

—Follow the manufacturer's instruction manual for recommended operating procedures and safety precautions.

—Examine a new oven for evidence of shipping damages.

—Never operate a microwave oven if the door does not close firmly or if it is bent, warped or otherwise damaged.

—Never insert objects through the door grill or around the door seal.

—Never tamper with or inactivate the oven safety interlocks.

—Frequently clean the inside of the oven, the door and the door seals with water and detergent. Do not use scouring pads or powders.

—Do not dry items in the oven.

—Have a serviceman check the oven regularly for signs of wear, damage or tampering.

Those ovens manufactured before October 1971 have an off switch which must be thrown before the oven is opened.

These ovens should be tested for radiation loss and some local federal agencies will do this for you.

Locally, contact the U.S. Food and Drug Administration at 293-5166 for testing procedures.

A small snag developed in the council's award of $25,000 of park use funds for the swim pool project at Mt. Miguel High school. With the request was a request that the council have a voice in the joint powers agreement by which the pool would be built. The school district indicated the requested would not be acceptable. The council will decide whether it will change its position or withhold the funds.

Temper, Temper

A couple of tempers were loosened—perhaps by the length of the meeting—when Jack Doherty was stopped from discussing a "budgetary surplus" he claimed the Fire Department was holding. Three of the councilmen are directors of the Fire Department. Mayor Dorman said Fire Department business is properly the business of the Fire Department board and closed that part of the discussion.

This Week's RECIPE

Snow Topped Strawberry Salad

Springtime is also salad time making it a good time to make a meal out of a salad. Fruits are often reserved to inspire refreshing, nutritious creations.

The berries, both straw and blue, are high in vitamin C and calcium and this week's recipe melts strawberry slices with strawberry gelatin and crowns it with blueberries.

SNOW TOPPED

STRAWBERRY SALAD

- 2 three oz. packages strawberry gelatin
- 2 cups boiling water
- 1 cup cold water
- 2 cups strawberry slices
- 3/4 cup mayonnaise
- 1 cup heavy cream, whipped
- 1 cup blueberries

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water; add cold water. Chill until partially set; fold in strawberries. Pour into two quart glass serving bowl. Chill until firm.

Combine salad dressing and heavy cream. Pour over molded layer. Top with blueberries. Makes eight servings.

Silverfish Menace Can Be Curbed By Several Methods

Two of the most destructive insects that can infest the home are slender, wingless silverfish and firebrats.

These insects can destroy books and clothing and become one of the worst unwanted guests any home can have.

Silverfish are shiny, silver or pearl gray slender wingless insects about one-third to one-half inch long. Firebrats are about the same length but are shiny, mottled gray in color. Both insects have scaly bodies that taper gradually to the rear and have slender antennae in front and three long thin appendages in back.

During the day, they hide. They only come out at night to do their destruction. Items on their menu include cereals, moist wheat flour, books, any paper that has glue or paste, starch in clothing, and rayon or linen fabrics. They, however do not like wool. Also they can live several months without food.

Silverfish live and develop in damp cool places, particularly in basements or laundry rooms.

Firebrats thrive best in very warm, moist places around ovens, heating units, fire places, hot water pipes, the attic in summer, and near the furnace in winter.

They generally can be found anywhere in the home and especially in bookcases, closets, or other places where protein, starch, or sugar can be found.

Large numbers of them invade new homes by coming in via lumber, wallboard, and other wood such as door trim. Freshly laid cement and green lumber supply the needed moisture for them as does wood shavings and wallpaper paste.

There are four methods of controlling these pests; a good commercial insecticide which contains malathion, bait packets or bait sandwiches," silica gel based dusts, and boric acid powder.

The sprays should be applied directly to door and window casings, baseboards, closets, bookcases, and places where pipes go through walls.

The bait packets should be placed in closets, under rugs, in bookcases, and other dark areas around the home. The packets contain substances attractive to insects so follow label directions.

Silica gel based dusts or boric acid powder should be applied with a bulb duster, powder blower, or a plastic squeeze bottle. Dust areas described for sprays leaving a fine layer and allow to remain for at least two weeks.

The dusts remain effective indefinitely. The insects usually walk on the dust, pick up particles of it on their body and swallow it. But eventually the dust may become too moist to become effective and retreatment is suggested.

To keep these pests away, keep basements, laundry rooms, and bathrooms clean and dry. Plug or putty holes and spaces around pipes. Repair leaks and drips in plumbing. Clean closets periodically and collect magazines, papers, and books. Occasionally move books around on bookshelves and keep foods in pantries or in containers with tight lids.

The universe will be the topic of a two hour special report on KPBS-TV Sunday at 3 p.m. The program will also be repeated on Memorial Day at 12:30 p.m.

Dewar's Tourney Draws Gridders To Las Vegas Nets

LAS VEGAS — George Atkinson, defensive back of the Super Bowl champion Oakland Raiders, and Lynn Swann, wide receiver of the Pittsburgh Steelers, who have experienced some rough moments against one another on the football field, could renew their feud on a tennis court.

Tournament chairman Iz Becker has announced that Atkinson and Swann will be competing in the Dewar's Sports Celebrity Tennis Tournament June 6-9 at the Hotel Riviera courts.

Competition is round-robin, mixed doubles, which means that Atkinson and Swann could become partners as well as opponents.

Atkinson will be making his debut here as he joins teammate Fred Biletnikoff, the wide receiver voted MVP in the Super Bowl, in this event for 32 top athletes from 10 different sports.

In his inaugural last year, Swann, MVP in the 1976 Super Bowl, reached the finals with John Cappelletti, L.A. Rams running back, before losing, 7-9, to the eventual champions, Bob Klein, Rams tight end, and Brad Park, Boston Bruins All-Star defenseman.

Griff Track Team SCCC Runner-up

Coach Bob Larsen's Griffin track and field team made its strongest showing in history at last Saturday's Southern California Community College Championships at Citrus College.

Chuck Hattersley ran his best 1,500-meter time (3:49.7) of the year, but was out-learned at the wire by Citrus College's Terry Kleinsasser, who finished with the identical time.

In the 3,000-meter steeplechase, Griffin Mike LeBold placed third in a personal record time of 9:23.2, while freshman teammate Jim Austin (9:43.6) placed sixth.

Glenn Best (31:26.2) and Chris Hughes (31:54.8) ran to the third and fourth place finishes, respectively, in the 10,000-meter run, and will advance to the state finals. Both athletes recorded personal bests in the Southern Cal race.

High jumper Brian Finney soared to a personal record height of 6-10 to finish it in a sixth-place tie. However, he advanced to the state meet since six competitors reached that height.

Finney's effort was the best ever by a Grossmont freshman and it also tied the school record set by Bill Bunting last spring.

'Kojak' Day Offers Free T-Shirts

"Who Loves Ya, Baby?" Thanks to television's "Kojak", Telly Savalas, almost everyone in America is familiar with that phrase, and now Hollywood Park is borrowing it.

The Inglewood track will pose the question on a T-Shirt, which will be given away free to patrons on Memorial Day, Monday, May 30. The T-Shirts also will carry a racing scene and the track will answer its own question with a line under the action picture that reads, "Hollywood Park", with the artwork done in brilliant red, blue and yellow tones.

"We were so delighted by the response to our first T-Shirt giveaway a year ago, when more than 40,000 of our fans went home with shirts adorned with pictures of lead-jockeys Bill Shoemaker, Sandy Hawley and Laffit Pincay, that we decided to make the offer again," commented general manager Robert P. Benoit.

Griffs Baseball MVP

Sophomore centerfielder Chris Jones was voted by his teammates as the most valuable player on the 1977 Grossmont College baseball team. Jones hit .359 for the season and set a school record for most stolen bases in a season with 27. He also led the team in home runs with seven.

Brumfield, Hogan Due For Racquetball Cup

More than a dozen professionals, including the defending champion as well as this year's tournament favorite, will be part of the Leach-sponsored squad entered in the national racquetball championships June 4-11 in San Diego.

Charlie Brumfield, current national champion, and Marty Hogan, 18-year-old whiz who has dominated the winter pro tour, lead the back-player list as well as the tournament seedings.

Hogan, who lost to Brumfield in the finals and last year's nationals, has won nine straight National Racquetball Club (NRC) pro events and more than $25,000 in purses. He was beaten by Brumfield in an International Racquetball Club (IRC) event in Tucson this spring. Brumfield's only pro win this year.

Shannon Wright, another Leach player and a 1976 finalist in the nationals, is the women's favorite this year after enjoying nearly an unblemished record during the season. Davey Bledsoe, a three-time tournament winner this year, steady and after spectacular Rich Wagner and veterans Steve Keeley and Steve Serot all will be among the top seeds for the 32-man draw in the nationals.

All the above players live in San Diego County. Other Leach players highly ranked in the event are Bennie Koltun, current junior champ from St. Louis; Chris McCoy of Riverside; John Lynch, of Champaign, Ill.; Steve Chase, Tempe, Arizona; Jay Jones, Los Angeles; Mike Yellin, Detroit; Lindsey Myers, Vancouver; and Mike Zeitman, Memphis. Leach, a San Diego-based company, is the nation's largest manufacturer of racquetball racquets.

The tournament will be played at the Atlas Health Club.

A Little About Bullfighting

Artistry of the Matador Tests Bravery of the Bull

If you have questions about bullfighting and were too embarrassed to ask, read this article. It tells a little of the history, the art and the objective of the ceremony. Below are the basics. There is much, much more, some of which may take years to comprehend, and even more years to appreciate.

Bullfighting is not a sport. Although great athletic ability is required, it is a contest somewhat akin to gymnastics or figure skating.

There is no competition between man and bull, no winning or losing.

The participants, toro and torero, are not adversaries in combat, but rather partners in a ritualized, stylized ballet. They don't fight each other. They complement each other.

The bullfight is probably the most controversial, misunderstood public spectacle in the world. And in Tijuana, where there are two major plazas de toros, a large percentage of the fans are ignorant of the complexities of the art which has existed for more than 2,000 years.

Toro Bravo

Toro Bravo, the brave bull is a direct descendant of the mighty aurochs, the world's only natural born killer. He is raised as a wild animal; his bloodlines protected throughout the centuries make him a thoroughbred whose killer instinct surfaces at La Fiesta Brava.

Toro law says he must be 4 years old and weigh 1,000 or more pounds.

The Tests

Las Alamitos Draws Best 3-Year Olds

LOS ALAMITOS — The 24th running of the classy $75,000-added Los Alamitos Derby and the Shue Fly stakestop this Memorial weekend's quarter horse events Saturday and Monday at Los Alamitos.

Nine times a stepping-stone to Horse-of-the-Year honors, this year's Derby attracted 34 of the country's best 3-year-olds for last week's trials which reduced Saturday's final field to 10.

Lord Winsalot, the nation's champion 2-year-old colt in 1976 with earnings exceeding $400,000, is expected to go favored despite being idle this year until the trials.

Monday night's Shue Fly at 350 yards probably will pit the cream of older stakes horses such as Flashy Go Moore and Little Blue Sheep, the winner and runnerup of Los Alamitos' opening night Inaugural purse.

Both the Los Alamitos Derby and the Shue Fly will be the seventh race on the Memorial Day weekend's nine race cards.

Poway Girl Named Miss Nude USA

Michele Walters, 20 of Poway, was named Miss Nude U.S. in a contest Sunday at Samagutuma, near Ramona. She is a pert brunette, about 5-7, 120 pounds with a measurement of 35, 19, 33. She is single.

Runners up were Thea Gregg, 22, of San Diego; Beckly Neilson, 29, of San Diego, and Sheryl Brown, 25, of La Mesa.

Winner and runners-up will go into a contest for the title Miss Nude International in July at Riverside.

S.V. Racers Lead On S.B. Dirt Oval

John Cartwright, a 31-year-old Spring Valley mechanic who is one of the busiest drivers in the county, has moved ahead (140 points) in the modified stock car standings and figures to be the driver to beat Friday night during South Bay Park Speedway's doubleheader. Jim Pavlick (140 points) also of Spring Valley is pushing Cartwright for the lead.

Cartwright, who races in Tijuana and Cajon, too, won by a wide margin over Don Hicks of National City in last week's 30-lap feature. He has moved ahead of first week victor Al McBride of San Diego in the SBRA standings.

Gates open at 6, time trials start for the modifieds at 7 and the first trophy begins at 8:15 p.m.

With Cartwright, Jim Pavlick and McBride again chasing for the top modified prize, teammates Walt Adney of Chula Vista and Jerry Fries of National City are making a strong bid in the street stock car division.

camore Canyon fill near Santee and Otay Fill in Chula Vista on Otay Valley rd. Both of these can operate until the year 2000, according to Davis.

In a separate development, the City is continuing its efforts to gain approval from the board of supervisors to open a new, North Chollas Landfill to replace the one they're closing. The City has completed a month-long study of noise levels at both North and South Cholls, which concludes that noise will not present a problem, and the matter will be back before the Board of Supervisors on June 7. The county does not operate either Chollas. It acts as a fact-finding body regarding noise as required by state law.

coupled with higher supply costs merited the increase.

"Our suppliers," he continued, "have made increases of 8 to 9 per cent last year and it would appear they will continue. Of course we don't tune. Of course we don't to keep up."

Another reason for the increase was the $11 million budgeted for staff salaries. Salaries at Grossmont Hospital are up by $2.4 million.

The Grossmont Hospital District projects a $450,150 profit from the increases and expects to put down at least $150,000 of it on the $750,000 the district owes on interest on construction bonds.

The fy-1978 budget for the hospital has been set at $23.3 million.

TAKE FIVE

by John E. Wirges

It's as refreshing as a cool breeze on a warm day, or a chilled beer after sweaty work. It fits. It's right. It's a good and honest rip for the workingman. It's right on.

The doer of the deed is a gent named Telosi Telani. He's a Samoan. And he's the very able representative of all the hard knocking, dirt shoveling, load lifting, ditch digging, get-out-and-grub-for-a-living, working stiffs from here to Timbuktu.

Telani got his calling while serving as a sergeant in the Army, stationed at his home in American Samoa. The Army detachment there is rather small and unless you care for fishing, swimming, or sailing, there just wasn't a helluva lot to do.

Now, American Samoa is a little like what the Garden of Eden is reported to be. Soft, warm breezes, tropical sun, friendly people, an overwhelming abundance of food in the sea and across the land.

It's almost paradise. There is no want. No crime. No troubles. Not even a challenge.

That's what the matter was, thought Telani. No challenge. The young people move away. There was nothing except perfection to hold them at home. And so they went to Hawaii, or the mainland to find fulfillment.

Telani was not a philosopher, nor was he a psychiatrist, nor anything inbetween. He was a sergeant. He didn't think in abstracts. He's a man of positive action. American Samoa needed a challenge, so he set about building a golf course. What could be more American than that?

Among the host of thing Telani isn't, he also ain't an engineer. He knew little or nothing of architecture, golf course design, drainage, seeding, or any of the hundred and one things that everyone knows must be allowed for in the building of a golf course.

Telani ignored all the things he didn't know. He just went out and built a golf course. He didn't know you couldn't build one that way. So he went ahead and did.

The first thing Telani needed was some land. Apparently anybody who wants to build the first golf course in American Samoa has no problem in getting the necessary real estate. Telani picked out a likely spot and was told to go ahead.

Telani didn't use distance charts, or anything as mundane as blueprints or the like in laying out his course. Again he took the direct approach.

"I stood where I thought the first tee ought to be and I hit about 100 golf balls," he said. "Then I went to the center area of where most of them landed and I hit 100 3-irons to where I thought the green ought to be. And I built the green where most of those shots landed."

Telani "borrowed" a bulldozer and moved earth around to shape a green each place he "decided" one ought to be. Some holes are a drive and a 3-iron to the green. Others are a drive and a 5-iron, or a drive and a wedge. The par five is two woods and a long iron, and the par three is an average of 100 long iron shots, exactly.

American Samoa enjoys a unique, 9-hole, "community" golf course, played proudly by the members of the Lava-Lava Country Club. Like other American courses, the Lava-Lava C.C. holds monthly tournaments and has an active junior program. Everybody in Samoa gets to play.

Last year American Samoa joined Hawaii in entering the Junior World Golf Tournament played in four age divisions over five San Diego golf courses. Angela Langkilde captured the girl's 11-12 title by eight strokes to take the crown back to Samoa.

This year Samoa is sending a 20 player contingent under its own flag to play in the July 19-22 Junior Golf classic. With progress like that, college and pro play are certainly in Samoa's future.

And equally certain, all the working stiffs in the world are righteously proud because one of their number went out and created hope and promise in the proper building of a thing he didn't know he couldn't do. And ain't that something to be proud of...

Ralph Dineen Wins Cajon Main But S.V.'s McIntyre Holds Lead

Pat McIntyre, reigning leader at Cajon Speedway, added points to his total Saturday by racking up 3rd place in the 40-lap, main-event, superstock competition.

The event was won by a different racer for the 6th week in a row with Ralph Dineen of Blossom Valley who was followed closely by veteran George Easu of San Diego.

Ron Easau won the 4-lap dash; John Price took the 8-lap heats; Tom Hicks ran first in the 10-lap semi final and Larry Twombly took the 20-lap semi.

Barbara Baxter won the Powder Puff race.

In a demolition derby with media members Mike Smith of TV Ch. 9 was ruled the winner. The derby was to benefit Big Brothers.

The fast superstocks return to Cajon Speedway Saturday to participate in a Special Bill Spencer Memorial 75-lapper. A field of 22 cars will start.

A 25-lap semi-main, two heat races and a trophy dash will be on the program.

Time trials begin at 6:30 and the trophy dash goes on at 8 p.m.

GRAND PRIX MOTOCROSS — Pierre Karsmakers and Roger De Cosier demonstrate rough-terrain motocross like that to be exhibited at Carlsbad June 19.

Mikkola, Karsmakers Spice Grand Prix

Entered for the June 19th running of the Hang Ten United States Moto-Cross Grand Prix — co-sponsored by Belray Oil — is the newest and most exciting team in International moto-cross. The 1977 Yamaha Grand Prix squad of Finland's Heikki Mikkola and Dutch-American, Pierre Karsmakers, will be at Carlsbad Raceway in Southern California for the Hang Ten/Belray event in an effort to break the stranglehold which their rival Japanese factory, Suzuki, has had on Championship moto-cross for the past few seasons.

Yamaha won the 250cc

World Championship in 1972 but their attempts on the much more prestigious 500cc title have been abortive... until this season. After a year on the sidelines, Yamaha came back into the 500cc Grand Prix arena for 1977 with two surprise signings.

They tempted current World 250cc Champion, Mikkola, away from the Husqvarna team and back into 500cc moto-cross and Pierre Karsmakers rejoined Yamaha's American team (for both European and US events) after a couple of seasons with Honda. Mikkola has been the only rider to topple Suzuki's Belgian star, Roger De Coster, from the 500cc throne in the past six years when he wrested the title from him in 1974. Now De Coster feels threatened again by the rugged Finn.

In the season-opener in Austria, Mikkola was fourth overall and Karsmakers sixth but for the next Grand Prix, in Holland on May 1st, Heikki took maximum points by winning both qualifying races and went one point ahead of De Coster in the standings. Two weeks later, in Sweden, Mikkola again topped the points tally to consolidate a 73 to 65 point lead over the Belgian.

40 young men will don glove to engage the modern version of fisticuffs.

"We've got an outstanding group of young boxers," Rubine said. "Some of them will stay in sports — either fighting or some other element."

Here is the card:

KO's Shorten Boxing Bill; Twin 10 Booked for Friday

It was a short night at the Coliseum Friday.

Three bouts — two 10s and a 6 — provided the 26 rounds required to stage a boxing show in California. But in each bout a knockout was registered early in the fray and the rounds dwindled down to 9.

For example: The middle-weight fight between Greg Stephens and Larry Myers was scheduled for 6 rounds. Stephens cut it short by decking Myers at 1:38 of the 3rd. Stephens could have finished it a round earlier except for some early round wildness. It was his 3rd victory without a defeat.

In the 10-round feature, Ad Zapanta, a veteran Filipino featherweight lasted only until 1:21 of the 2nd round against the classy New York State Champion Gerald Hayes. Hayes, last month, KO'd Cal. State Featherweight Champion Manuel Lujan in a non-title battle. He dropped Lujan in the first round.

In the 10-round undercard, lightweight Rogelio Castenada of Michoacan, Baja California KO'd Vic de la Cruz at 1:39 of the 3rd round. The pair waltzed the first round then got down to business. De la Cruz was wild. Castenada proved to have a better punch

Wardrop Readies Team for Opener

Bill Wardrop, possibly the best stuff blocker in professional volleyball, has launched a new career.

The superstar of the IVA's San Diego Breakers is now player-coach. Camp opened last week, 26 days before their season opener at Orange County June 11. Wardrop has his own firm ideas on how to run a pro volleyball camp.

"Our players have to be in good condition," he said. "We also have to have an overall game plan for the season. We're starting off slowly — jumping, diving, hitting the ball. Then we'll pick up the tempo."

Although the exercises are not as strenuous as the gradually will become, Wardrop has his club practicing four hours a day, six days a week, in a gymnasium. Then they go to the weight room for 1½-2 hours, lifting weights and running on alternate days.

During the season the players will get at least one day off a week. If they are physically tired, Wardrop will have a light workout on off days. If they're, as he calls it "mentally stagnant," they'll get a day off.

The nucleus of the club consists of Wardrop, Jay Hanseth, Duncan McFarland and Roseanne Weglich. Wardrop, 32, led the IVA in stuff blocks and kills last season. Hanseth, then with Santa Barbara, was the league leader in attacking attempts. Rosie, voted the top defense specialist in 1976, was second in digs, and McFarland finished third in stuff blocks while playing for Tucson last season.

Another card will carry twin 10-rounders this week on Friday making it three weekly shows in a row. After that, the Coliseum reverts to programs every other week, according to Danny Millsap, Coliseum promoter.

35 rounds of boxing is scheduled Friday starting at 8:15.

Bantamweights Paul Pacheco, champ of lower California and Mike Stuart, named 1976 Fight of the Year by the L.S. press, headline the card in a 10 rounder.

Another 10-rounder, has light-heavyweights Peete McIntyre, L.A. mixing with Danny Brewer, Hawthorne.

Middle weights Gregg Stephens and Armand Ruiz, both of L.A. go 5 rounds while Miguel Ruiz and Danny O'Campo go 6 as lightweights.

A 4 rounder pits Guereimo Gonzales against Sipio Stubbs. They're junior lightweights.

Grossmont Golfers Win State Title

Coach Dick McMinn said his 1977 Grossmont College golf team was going to be the best in the school's 15-year history. And last Monday the Griffins proved their coach to be correct as they captured the Calif. Community College Championship at Rancho Canada golf course in Carmel Valley.

Grossmont took 788 strokes to cover the 36 holes to easily outdistance second place Southwestern (799). Fresno City was third at 800, followed by Chabot (804), El Camino (810), Bakersfield (812), Delta (814), San Jose (816), Santa Ana (819) and Canada (824).

Other Griffin scores were: Scott Bentley (76-80 = 156); Randy Moore (76-81 = 157); Bill Smoot (78-80 = 158); Gary Griggs (83-81 = 164); and Mark Wade (85-81 = 166).

Grossmont finished the season in strong fashion by winning the S. Coast Conference Tournament and the S. Cal. crown before taking the big one last week.

G'mont Women Names Sports 'MVP's'

Four Grossmont College women were selected as the most valuable player for their respective spring sport at a banquet last week.

Patty Plesner won the high honor for tennis, while Jackie Ledbetter was tabbed as the MVP in basketball.

Angela Gudde was the most valuable performer in gymnastics, while Christy Tarvin was the MVP in swimming.

Court to Decide Nude Pageant Name Complaint

The Federal District Court in L.A. may become judge of a nude beauty pageant.

Defendant is the "Miss Nude USA" pageant and its promoter William G. Fleisher, president of Treehouse Fun Ranch, Inc., San Bernardino. Fleisher who has operated the "Miss Nude USA" pageant since 1973, said the title denotes that the winner goes on to participate in the "Miss Nude World" pageant which is held each year in Ontario, Canada.

H. R. Glasser, president of the firm which presents "Miss USA" and "Miss Universe" pageants, charged in a complaint filed last month that Fleisher's presentation will lead the public to become confused because the word "Nude" in the title "Miss Nude USA" merely "appears to describe 'Miss USA' more completely, that is, a Miss USA who is nude."

Until the court hearing, a temporary restraining order forbids Fleisher the use of "Miss Nude USA" as a title. According to Fleisher, the 1977 pageant will go forward July 23-24 under the name of "Miss Nude International Pageant" unless the temporary restraining order is lifted in the upcoming hearing.

Bill Would Require Tax Assessments Every 3 Years

SACRAMENTO — State Controller Kenneth Cory has proposed property in California be appraised once every three years for assessed valuation and these values be adjusted annually to the Consumer Price Index.

Cory said under present regulations, assessments come once every five years and the result is taxpayer shock over huge new tax bills.

"Under present law, a property owner may not see a new appraisal from the County Assessor for five years or more," said Cory, "the resulting leap in the tax bill can be overwhelming."

Get 3,200 Calls Monthly Bar Assn. Tapes Popular

The San Diego County Bar Assn. reported that TEL-LAW has received over 9,600 calls during the first three months of service.

"By May 25th our effort to supply the public with legal information should hit the 10,500 mark," Howard Bechefskey, Bar president, stated.

Jack Wills, TEL-LAW chairman, said the two most popular tapes "unfortunately parallel today's two leading social problems: marriage dissolution and landlord tenant problems. The tapes on probate and wills and the entire consumer problem area seem to be very popular."

TEL-LAW is a county-wide telephone information service. The caller dials 231-7900 and requests a tape by number (a TEL-LAW brochure is available) or by subject, and the operator will play it. The service is available 9 a.m. to 4:45 p.m., Monday through Friday.

According to Bechefskey, "the $25,000 investment is a part of the continuing preventive law program of the Bar. TEL-LAW provides information about possible legal problems in the early stages, thus saving the consumer both time and money."

TEL-LAW supplies general information about legal services, consumer information, taxes, adoption, civil problems, bankruptcy, estates, employment and Social Security.

TEL-LAW tapes do not provide specific legal advice. However, callers can find out if they have a potential legal problem and how to get further help or advice. TEL-LAW brochure is available at many law offices in the county, all legal centers, such as courthouses, Legal Aid centers, Defenders' office, the City and County Administration Buildings and the Law Library. They may also be obtained by contacting the San Diego County Bar Association at 231-0781.

Hearings On County Budget Scheduled

Public hearings on the anticipated $500 million budget for San Diego County will begin on June 1 with members of the County's Agency Advisory Boards making presentations to the Supervisors.

After these reports by the Advisory Board are made, the public will have an opportunity to testify before the Supervisors as time permits.

The meetings will be held in the South Chambers of the County Administration Center, 1600 Pacific Highway.

The hearings will continue on June 2 at 10 a.m. On agenda specifically for that meeting will be a discussion of property taxes for new houses in San Diego. The county staff will make recommendations.

On June 3 from 9 a.m. until noon, the Supervisors are scheduled to hold hearings on their cut of federal revenue sharing monies.

After a weekend recess, the meetings will continue June 6 and June 8. These days have been reserved for presentations from organizations and individuals asking for money from the county.

Board Equalizes Pay For Substitutes

The Lemon Grove School Board voted May 10 to increase the pay scale for substitute teachers to a rate more comparable to other schools in the San Diego area.

The new rates which go into effect September 1 grant pay increases of about $2 per day to district substitutes.

Current pay rate per day for Lemon Grove substitutes is $30 for the first ten days and $33 thereafter.

The new scale would give these teachers $32 per day for the first ten, $35 for the next ten, and $48 after the 20th day.

Assistant Superintendent Jim Justeson told the Board Tuesday May 10 the new rates would put Lemon Grove in a better position of attracting good substitute teachers to the area.

Currently, only La Mesa-Spring Valley and Lakeside districts pay less for substitutes than Lemon Grove. Both districts have as basic rate for substitutes set at $27.50 per day.

80 Years of Records

1890's Rain Report Shows Abrupt Changes

A report written by a noted Southern California climatologist of the 19th century shows severe droughts and floods is a normality to Southern California.

Researchers at the University of California Riverside have recently uncovered a report written by J. M. Guinn in 1899 for the 1890 edition of the Quarterly for the Historical Society of Southern California, showing evidence of a climate that is anything but mild!

Quinn's report showed in last century California's climate could be described as one of extremes, floods followed by severe drought and not the mild and moderate climate of which the area is known.

His report shows the earliest flood on record was in 1811-12. Floods in that year and again in 1822 sent local streams on the rampage. Streams including the Los Angeles, San Gabriel, and Santa Ana rivers overflowed their banks and changed routes as the force of the water devastated their natural banks.

The flood may have changed the topography of the area, but it was the severe drought that changed California's history.

In 1825, a relatively wet year produced lush pasture lands, enough in fact to sustain a thriving cattle industry in Southern California.

But by 1827, three years of severe drought virtually destroyed the pasture lands and forced the cattle industry out of the region.

It wasn't a good three years for weather forecasters.

"The weather prophet, with his portents and omens, was without honor at such times," wrote Guinn.

This first drought was relieved by the flood of 1832. Heavy flooding occurred again in 1842 but the cycle turned full circle once more in 1844-46 for a three year drought complete with "its usual accompaniment of starving cattle and horses."

By 1850 another deluge hit California. That year, the Sacramento Valley was like an inland sea. Every mountain creek became a river, every river a lake, and the city of Sacramento became a second Venice, Italy.

"But instead of gondolas, the miners (who were after rich gold strikes) navigated the submerged streets in wagon-boxes, baker's troughs, crockery crates, and on rafts made of whiskey-kegs," wrote Guinn. "Whiskey in hogsheads, whiskey in barrels and whiskey in kegs floated on the angry waters, and the gay gondolier, as he paddled through the streets, drew inspiration for his song from the bung-hole of his gondola."

Another flood in 1852 brought disaster and financial ruin to many mining camps in the Motherlode region.

By 1856, California weather had a reputation of anything but being mild.

1856 was a year of severe drought, intense summer heat, earthquakes, thunder and lightning, and severe sand storms. But that year was only a prelude to the great flood of 1861-2.

Guinn reported, "As in Noah's days, the windows of heaven were opened, and the waters prevailed exceedingly on the face of the earth."

The rain began on Christmas Eve, 1861 and continued for a month with only two slight interruptions. During one of those brief pauses, the Los Angeles "Star" reported: "A Phenomenon—On Tuesday last the sun made its appearance. The phenomenon lasted several minutes and was witnessed by a great number of persons."

Following the worst flood in history naturally came the worst drought, nearly three years of it, beginning in the fall of 1863 and continuing through 1865.

The seasonal rainfall for 1862-63 was less than four inches compared to the 50 inches that fell the year before.

Guinn ended his report with some advice for the future.

"Increased facilities for irrigation, the development of water by tunneling through the hills, artesian wells, the building of reservoirs for water storage; and the more economic use of water will do much to counteract the evil effects of the dreaded dry year."

Iron Deficiency Labeled Major Childhood Hazard

A disease usually found only in developing countries — severe iron deficiency anemia — has become a major health hazard to children in this country. It can cause serious illness, even death.

The problem was reported in the March issue of California Medical Association's Western Journal of Medicine by three physicians at the Los Angeles County-University of Southern California Medical Center: Drs. Charles Pegelow, assistant professor of pediatrics; Darlene Powars, associate professor of pediatrics; and Willis Wingert, professor of pediatrics.

They found iron deficiency in one third of the children between the ages of three months and two years who were seen at the hospital's pediatric emergency ward. Despite efforts to prevent the disease, iron deficiency rates have held stubbornly at about the same level.

Over a two-year period, Dr. Pegelow noted, 60 children with severe iron deficiency were admitted. Eleven were so severely anemic that they were in a state of heart failure, characterized by enlargement of the heart, excessively fast beating and fluid in the lungs.

While none of this group died, hospital records show that during an earlier 10-year period — from 1960 to 1970 — there were 12 deaths "in which severe iron deficiency anemia was felt to be the major contributory factor."

"This is unexpectedly high," he said.

Dr. Pegelow said that normally a physician might expect to see one child a year admitted to a hospital for severe iron deficiency. At his hospital there are two or three every month.

"It is suspected that severe iron deficiency anemia is not limited to our area, and that it is much more common in lower-income families," he said.

One cause of the disease is excessive consumption of milk, he said, because milk is a low source of iron.

Some children are allowed to drink unusually high amounts of milk even up to two years of age, to the virtual exclusion of all other foods.

Dr. Pegelow said the disease could be prevented by following this procedure. During the first six months infants should be fed iron-supplemented milk formulas. Solid foods, many of which contain iron, should be gradually introduced into the diet. At about one year old, the child should be weaned from a bottle to a cup.

"The reason we suggest weaning to a cup as early as possible is that youngsters cannot drink enough milk from a cup to satisfy their appetite, because they will spill it and will find it too inconvenient," he said. "They will therefore be hungry for other foods."

Iron deficiency can be prevented by eating a wide variety of solid foods, he said.

Japanese Refute State

The San Diego Chamber of Commerce President, John M. Murphy, has reported the Sony Corporation of Tokyo, Japan, may not consider even doing business in California due to "unfair tax situations."

The California tax assesses total sales, number of employees, and property owned in the state as tax base for multi-state corporations operating here. The Japanese believe taxation should be based on income alone.

CHP 55mph Drive Reduces Speed .6

Average vehicle speeds dropped .6 mph during the first week of May — a "favorable beginning for the Highway Patrols 55 mph Awareness Month," East County area commander Capt. C. M. Douglas said.

A weighted average, based on speed measurements at 31 locations throughout the state, found, a 54.8 mph mean speed, compared to 55.4 mph exactly one month earlier.

"The point of May awareness month is improved voluntary compliance, and the first week's experience shows progress."

He pointed out that an average speed "below 55 mph is not an indication that the desirable compliance level has been reached. The 85th percentile speed (speed at or below which 85 per cent of drivers are operating) was 59.4 during the first week in May, down .2 mph for the 59.6 of a month earlier."

"The significant point is that both the 85th percentile and average speeds dropped, showing a move toward greater voluntary compliance."

The CHP month-long awareness effort, supported by the cooperative efforts of private industry and government at all levels, continues until May 31. Permanent reduction of overall vehicle speeds is the goal.

Apportionment Of April Taxes

The State's April apportionment of cigarette taxes to counties and cities amounted to $9,250,825.

Sales and use tax for April was $57 million; highway users tax was $59,864,209 and in-lieu motor vehicle license fees was $37,671,695.

Lemon Grove will be eligible for a share of those taxes after July 1 of this year.

The county of San Diego is responsible for providing the same level of services for the entire fiscal year (July 1, 1977-June 30, 1978) which gives the City of Lemon Grove an opportunity to develop a bankroll of an estimate million dollars.

Samplings of income for other small San Diego County cities are:

ST (Sales Tax) MV (Motor Vehicles) HU (Highway Users) CT (Cigarette Tax).
Carlsbad $60,000 ST; $22,668 MV; $14,309 HU, and $12,407 CT.

La Mesa $120,000 ST; $60,179 MV; $37,326 HU, and $27,084 CT.
San Marcos $23,000 ST; $11,758 MV; $7,615 HU, and $5,903 CT.

Coronado — $15,500 ST; $24,195 MV; $15,246 HU, and $6,859 CT.

Lemon Grove has been compared to San Marcos for income purposes.

Auto Slalom Funds Go To C F Foundation

An automobile slalom to benefit the San Diego and Inland Empire Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation is set for June 4 and 5 in the parking area of the San Diego Stadium.

The event begins at 8 a.m. with more than 200 drivers participating.

'ABE OF SPOON RIVER' is Tender Story of a Man and True Friend

By Max Goodwin

In the rough-and-tumble world of sports reporting there are two kinds of journalists — those who admire Jack Murphy as a sports writer and those who resent him because he is more accurate and honest than they.

But all respect him! And Murphy, if he were asked, would probably say that there are two kinds of humans: those who own dogs and those who wish they could. Specifically, Labrador Retrievers.

Murphy, as every San Diego newspaper reader knows, is sports editor of the SAN DIEGO UNION. He has written a book about his longtime companion of hundreds of hunting forays, Abe of Spoon River. The book, published by Joyce Press ($9.95) — "ABE AND ME" is a recollection of incidents involving Abe, and others, during 13 years of friendship between Murphy and Abe.

Murphy wrote frequent columns about Abe, his personality and his character. And these columns attracted many women to the sports page. Not to learn about which team did what but to revel in reading of the relationship that existed between Abe and Jack. Human relations should be so good!

Women Loved Him

Women you know, are a pragmatic lot who have more faith in a sales ad than in a sports column, but when Murphy wrote about Abe of Spoon River, they tend to swoon and say to hell with the sale of panty hose at Walker Scotts. They prefer to read Murphy on Abe.

Abe of Spoon River is a black Labrador Retriever who possessed Jack Murphy — and thousands of readers — for 13 years.

With the passing of Abe, who died under the wheels of an auto earlier this year, Murphy poignantly recalls the many happy incidents in the existence of a loving master and an obedient hunting companion.

I asked Murphy why he had produced the book "ABE AND ME". He opened his new book to the chapter, "HOW IT BEGAN" and pointed to these paragraphs.

"I began writing about Abe of Spoon River because the dog pleased me greatly and I wanted to share my joy.

The Cranky Voices

"... I decided to indulge myself. I sought an occasional escape from the structured world of sports, especially professional sports, where cranky voices are heard. In theory, the sports section of a newspaper is a place to browse for entertainment, a refuge from the grim events of the day. But often it is filled with arguments of lawyers and agents; it seldom has the grace note of laughter.

"... My recreation, my fun is hunting and fishing... I learned about hunting partridges from naturalist Abe Leopold in his treasure of philosophical musings, 'A SAND COUNTY ALMANAC.' Leopold counseled that one should 'wander quite aimlessly, from one red lantern to another. This likely will take you where the birds are. The lanterns are blackberry leaves, red in the October sun. Red lanterns have lighted my way on many a pheasant hunt..."

Abe Was Guide

"My guide was Abe of Spoon River. Sometimes he led me to blackberry bushes busy with quail; more often he flushed them from chaparral and cactus... Abe earned his keep, he fetched me birds and readers.

"Long ago I made the happy discovery that a dog is truly man's best friend, especially if the man is a writer. Abe's popularity delighted me, he became part of my identity. His admirers sent him Christmas and birthday greetings; they worried when he was ill or infirm; they mourned when he died after being struck by a car.

"Readers related to Abe because they recognized his endearing qualities in Shep and Duke and Lassie, their canine friends. I suspect they reason that a fellow lucky enough to keep company with Abe couldn't be all bad."

Spellbound

It is difficult quoting from Murphy and finding a place to stop. His words tend to spellbind the reader.

The dust cover on "ABE AND ME" reminds that Murphy has been published by THE NEW YORKER (his profile on Archie Moore is considered a classic) and he has contributed to SPORTS ILLUSTRATED, VENTURE and other periodicals. He received the National Headliner Award for a "consistently outstanding sports column" and has been honored for his pieces on golf, horse racing and baseball. His work often is found in the E. P. Dutton anthology BEST SPORTS STORIES. He was president of the Football Writers Assn. of America in 1965.

Love Story

An interesting introduction is a piece by John Sinor, who fathers a daily column in the SAN DIEGO EVENING TRIBUNE, "Abe and Me" is a man's, woman's and child's book. It is a love story of great beauty," says Sinor.

Jack Murphy told me that he had written to the sportsmen who hunt, fish and love dogs in "ABE". It is a book that most sportsmen can identify with, he said.

He is a writer with whom any reader can identify. San Diegans are fortunate to have Murphy and through him to love Abe. Sorrow is frequently associated with love. This came when Abe died.

It's all in the book — to read and appreciate.

Radiation Levels Tested

The Environmental Protection Agency is running tests measuring non-ionizing radiation daily until June 1. Tests are conducted at 40 sites throughout the County.

Non-ionizing radiation is the kind that is emitted by radio and television signals, CB radios and microwave ovens. The purpose of the tests is to determine if there is a need to put a health limit on exposure to this kind of radiation.

Forms Enroute for Seniors' Claims

Nearly 360,000 state property tax assistance claim forms and more than 17,000 rent assistance claim forms have been mailed to senior citizen homeowners and renters the director of the programs for the Franchise Tax Board has announced.

Director Donald Whitney, of the Board, said citizens may file the forms up to August 31.

The director added homeowners must be 62 years of age, live in their own homes, and have $12,000 or less total income. Renters must be 62 years old, occupy a rented residence between July 1, 1976 and June 30, 1977, and have $5,000 or less total income.

Seniors who would like the forms and don't receive them in the mail may contact the Franchise Tax Board, 1350 Front St., phone: 236-7689 or write the Senior Citizens Programs, P.O. Box 1588, Sacramento, CA 95807.

PUC Holds Hearings On Rate Breaks

The rate breaks promised by the California Public Utilities Commission to homeowners who insulate their houses have taken another foot dragging turn.

The PUC said it plans to listen to San Diego County homeowners in late June before it decides to force utility companies to cut the rates to insulated homes.

Scheduled for June 27, the PUC will listen to area homeowners on the subject from 3 to 5 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Conference Room of San Diego Unified Port District 3165 Pacific Highway.

Throughout May, the PUC will listen to gas companies, insulation contractors and other technical advisors in a series of hearings from San Francisco to San Diego before making the decision for rate breaks.

The PUC has been considering the plan since early 1975.

Bill Backs Loans to Small Businessmen

SACRAMENTO — A Bill favoring loans to small businessmen has passed the California Assembly Committee on Finance, Insurance, and Commerce.

The bill, sponsored by 75th District Assemblyman Tom Suitt (D-Riverside), got "do pass" recommendation from the committee.

The bill seeks to make available to small businesses some $100 million in loans. Suitt's bill will allow the state to put up some $3 million to be matched by banks and borrowers.

According to Suitt, this will create a $9 million reserve fund which will act as a cushion to lenders.

"Lenders will have an incentive to make the business loans they might be reluctant to undertake because of uncertain economic conditions," Suitt said. "The state's minor investment will be more than offset by increased revenues generated by fuller employment."

Next up for the bill is a hurdle in the Assembly's Ways and Means committee.

Some Northern Parks Open for Memorial Day

All state park units that are usually open this time of year are expected to be in operation during the Memorial Day weekend, State Parks and Recreation Director Herbert Rhodes has announced, and normal or near-normal services to visitors will be offered by most state parks, beaches, and recreation areas.

Reservations for state park campsites during the Memorial Day weekend are filling fast, Rhodes noted. Many campgrounds are already fully reserved, including most campgrounds in the southern and central coastal areas plus Sugar Pine Point and Grover Hot Springs State Parks near Lake Tahoe and Brannan Island State Recreation Area in the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta.

People who wish to camp out during the holiday period are urged to consider the many north state campgrounds run by other government agencies and private individuals. Many campers use other campgrounds at night and enjoy the state parks during the day.

Ticketron Reservations

Most state park campgrounds are on the statewide computerized reservation system operated by Ticketron, with reservations available as late as Saturday for any nights beginning Friday of the following week. However, the campground at Samuel P. Taylor State Park in Marin County and the Bodega Dunes campground at Sonoma Coast State Beach in Sonoma County have been taken off the reservation system because of water supply shortages.

Boat launching service is diminished at Folsom Lake and Lake Oroville State Recreation Areas.

At Folsom Lake, east of Sacramento, the only launch ramp remaining in operation at the main lake is a temporary ramp at the marina at Brown's Ravine, where four docks with 175 slips and other limited services are provided. All permanent boat ramps at Folsom Lake have been above the water line since last Labor Day.

Boat launching continues normal at Lake Natoma, the other lake at Folsom Lake State Recreation Area, between Folsom and Nimbus Dams, where the water level remains nearly constant regardless of the level of Folsom Lake.

Oroville Low

At Lake Oroville, 70 miles north of Sacramento, the last permanent launch ramp, at the Spillway area, is now above the water line. A temporary launch ramp installed at Foreman Creek on the east side of the lake has one lane for trailered boats and one lane for car-top boats. All boat-in campsites have been taken off the reservation system because the low lake level makes the sites difficult to reach.

All services remain normal at Thermalito Forebay, below Oroville Dam. The water level there remains nearly constant regardless of the level of Lake Oroville. The 400-acre North Forebay is for swimming, fishing, and nonpowered boats only; the 400-acre South Forebay takes all kinds of boats.

Water shortages are resulting in inconveniences at a few state park units.

At the Bodega Dunes campground in Sonoma Coast State Beach, Sonoma County, chemical toilets have replaced flush toilets, and the only water available, for drinking and cooking, is hauled in by tank truck and dispensed from one central location.

Chemical toilets are also now in use at Mount Diablo State Park in Contra Costa County and at Butano State park in San Mateo County.

Showers Turned Off

Showers have been shut off at the beach at Seacliff State Beach in Santa Cruz County and at Half-Moon Bay State Beach in San Mateo County.

Cold showers only are available at the Seacliff State Beach campground and at Morro Bay State Beach in San Luis Obispo County.

Showers are limited to certain times of the day at Samuel P. Taylor State Park in Marin County and at Calaveras Big Trees State Park in Calaveras County.

At Sugarloaf Ridge State Park in Sonoma and Napa Counties, the water supply is subject to interrupt service because of a slow recovery rate in the reservoir. Austin Creek State Recreation Area in Sonoma County has no water, but dry camping is allowed.

No state park areas have yet been closed because of fire danger. Subject to closure whenever the fire index is too high are Topanga and Malibu Creek State Parks in Los Angeles County, Mount Diablo State Park in Contra Costa County, the upper half of Mount Tamalpais State Park in Marin County, and portions of Gaviota State Park (but not the campground area) in Santa Barbara County.

Rhodes said the public will be kept informed at all times of the current status of state park services.

"We will continue," he said, "to make every possible effort to maintain the state park campgrounds, recreation areas, and scenic trails while reducing use of water by 45 percent from previous years and protecting the health and safety of our park visitors."

Denturists Would Cut Middleman Cost

Is the preparation of dentures a medical procedure or a technical craft?

Dentists define it as a medical procedure, and charge their patients accordingly — with costs ranging up to $200 an hour for their services.

Assemblyman Richard Alatorre of Los Angeles is challenging this definition.

He feels that the fitting and fabrication of dentures essentially is a technical craft that can be performed by trained parodontal specialists with the same results and at less cost.

He has introduced Assembly Bill 1392, which would permit the public to bypass dentists and deal directly with parodontal specialists known as "denturists."

"My legislation isn't intended to deprive dentists of work, or to lower the standards of the dental profession," Alatorre said. "Its purpose is to make routine denture services available to the public at a more reasonable cost."

Alatorre noted the optometrists, chiropractors, paramedics, and other specialists once were denied entry to their fields by the medical profession.

"Now these professions are totally accepted, and perform invaluable health services," he said.

"There are only 12,000 dentists in California to serve 18 million people, and badly needed dental care often is denied to the poor and elderly because of their high professional fees. I think that trained and licensed parodontal specialists such as the denturist could alleviate some of these problems, at least where dentures are concerned," he concluded.

Monorailed Avocados

Avocado farmers in Camarillo are using Japanese built monorails to transport harvested fruit from hillside orchards to packing houses.

CSBA Reorganization Urged By Association President

Plans for major reorganization of the California School Board Assn. were announced by President Delbert Cederquist.

"School boards in California today face many new crises and have an increased need for program service from the Assn.," he said "With these added calls for service, the existing resources of the Assn. can no longer meet the needs and requests of its member districts."

Cederquist cited a need for a Serrano solution, the development of needed legal services, increased training for school board members, as well as an expanded legislative program. Other planned expansions are an enriched public relations program to develop public understanding and support of public schools, increased consultative field services to local school districts, publications and the availability of basic data information to local districts.

As a result of the need to expand services and staff, Joseph M. Brooks has submitted his resignation as executive secretary to accept an appointment as special assistant to the president of CSBA. An interim executive secretary will be appointed to serve during the period a special committee, appointed by the Board of Directors, seeks applicants.

The California School Boards Assn. is a non-profit, service association representing most of the 1,050 school districts in the state.

Western Art on Display At S.D. Country Estates

SAN DIEGO COUNTRY ESTATES — One of the nation's finest collections of Western art, gathered over a period of more than 40 years by John and Margaret Hill of Nashville, is being exhibited at this resort community.

Some 40 of the most famous works of Western art is on display, the first showing of the collection on the West Coast.

Beginning with earliest work, Joseph H. Sharp's "October — Crow Reservation," painted in 1890, the works of art in the exhibition span a period of 85 years. Included are pieces of such distinguished Western artists as Oscar Berninghaus, Irving Couse, Maynard Dixon, Frank Tenney Johnson, Robert Lougheed, Edgar Payne, Frederic Remington, Charles Russell, and Olaf Wieghorst.

The exhibit depicts many of the popular themes associated with the history and myth of the American West. Included are images of the American Indian, his costume and customs, paintings depicting the westward movement of pioneers, and the saga of the nomadic cowboy.

John Hill, chairman of the board of the Hospital Corp. of America, and his wife Margaret began collecting Western art in the mid-1930s, an interest growing out of their early life in Colorado and New Mexico. In the years since, they have developed one of the country's finest private collections.

"We are always delighted to exhibit our art," says Hill, "and we are especially pleased to bring a selection to San Diego Country Estates for its first showing on the West Coast."

The Hill collection will be on display in the Theme Building of the International Convention Center at the states. In addition, eight prominent Southern California galleries will exhibit great art of the American West in the picturesque Red Barn at Ramona Oaks at San Diego Country Estates.

The exhibits are free. S.D. Country Estates is located 44 miles northeast of San Diego and four miles east of Ramona. It is reached via Highway 67 from San Diego and via Interstate 5 and Highway 78 from Los Angeles.

Brown Backed Art Projects Will Cost Some $700,000

SACRAMENTO — The California legislature may spend some $700,000 to artists to paint pictures on the sides of the state's public buildings.

A bill, AB 1053 sponsored by Assemblyman Alan Sierota would dump nearly $3/4 million in funds into the State Architect's budget for the purpose of "the purchase or commissioning of visual art to embellish state buildings."

The Cultural News Service, a Sacramento-based arts information agency funded by the California Arts Council, is currently compiling a list of artists available for participation in the project should the bill clear the Legislature.

The bill already has cleared initial Senate and Assembly budget review subcommittees and is expected to become part of Brown's fy-1978 budget.

Among the plans are at least one large art project for each of the state's five California Arts Council designated "bio-regions". The large projects are expected to cost $60,000 apiece.

The Governor is backing the plan and the Cultural News Service is already taking applications. The State Architect will be sending out information on the program beginning this July.
